News a Little Worse
Marathon and Mino
Meet Mr. Siki
Ford and Fliers

News from Europe worse, as regards peace. England sends Turkey an ultimatum. Turks think very little of any ultimatum.

Europe was worried yesterday. England is not afraid of Turkey. The most powerful fleet, plenty of flying machines, dropping dynamite, would easily take care of Kemal. But back of him is still the Russian certainty.

Western Europe once had strong fences between it and Asia—Austria, Germany, Russia. Austria and Germany have been hammered, dismembered and plundered into hopeless nothingness. Russia has been made a bitter enemy.

The peace treaty of Versailles created in Europe half a dozen Alsaces and Lorraine problems in place of one. Everything is ready for a first class explosion there. Pray against it.

The Greeks enjoy their revolution, as they have done often during the last twenty-five hundred years. They ask Venizelos to come back and run national defense—better late than never.

One king is off the throne, his son is on, exchanging the gaudier for the gooiing.

When Byron was swimming, limping and dreaming about Greece, he wrote:
"The mountains look on Marathon
And Marathon looks on the sea;
And musing there an hour alone
I dreamed that Greece might still be free."

The mountains have been looking on Marathon for a long time. The Greeks seem unable to use, in the old-fashioned Greek way, the freedom from outside control about which Byron raved.

Creta has joined in the Greek revolution. That would interest King Minos, son of Jupiter, and Europe, and brother of Rhadamanthus, who ruled in Creta under a government that makes Homer seem modern.

How things have changed since that little island, Creta, was able, under the son of Minos, to conquer Athens, and command a nearly infinite of boys and virgins to be devoted by the Minotaur.

Now Creta joins Greece in a little revolution that has no meaning. The romance has gone from those deep, deep, dark Cretan valleys that the arm could hardly reach, and goes from the hillsides.

Mr. Siki, black Semegawian Christian, who speaks French and his hard, promises to come here and fight anybody. The young gentleman has arms that reach almost to his knees, and hands nicely covered with white kid gloves. This civilized nation will gladly pay him a million dollars to see him fight.

For physical fighting a white man is inferior to a black man; a black man is far below an orang-outang, and as orang-outang is below a bulldog, the gamecock below the gamecock, the gamecock below the mole, which, according to scientists, is the most desperate fighter of all the mammals. Two male moles would fight on in a burrow until one has lost its head, so much of it that it can't bite.

And the mole, in physical courage, is nothing compared with a male griffin, panther, or the average male spider.

That game insect goes a courtier, although the hour of his marriage is also the hour of his death. The female usually ends by eating him up. After the first bite, the male usually looks like any other insect to her.

A spider half the size of Mr. Siki could in a few moments kill and suck dry Siki, Dempsey, orang-outang, bulldog, gamecock.

BLACK HAND KING SLAIN IN EAST BOSTON

SCARPONE DEFENDANT MARKED MAN AFTER HIS ACQUITTAL

Joseph Simboli, long "king of the Black Hand" in Boston, was murdered today.

His lifeless body, found early today in the Orient Heights section of East Boston, was identified this afternoon at Northern Mortuary by Inspector Joseph Cavanaugh and William Crawford, two men he had threatened to kill.

His death was predicted to the police four weeks ago by an informant who tipped the authorities that bloody warfare between the rival gangs was due to come.

Simboli was found in a vacant field in East Boston early today by Joseph Silva. Three six wounds in his breast.

Simboli, as the leader of the seven men tried January because he refused to pay $400. He was acquitted.

As he strutted through the corridor of the courthouse Simboli shouted a curse and threatened, "I'll fix them. I got them yet!" He referred to Inspectors Cavanaugh and Crawford.

BECAME MARKED MAN.
When Simboli and Antonio Mascetti were acquitted in the Scarpone case Little Italy entered into a wild celebration. A mob was given them and Simboli and Mascetti were carried through the streets of the North End on the shoulders of their friends while the crowds cheered.

The celebration wound up with a party in a house on Prince street, near the scene of the Scarpone murder, at which the wire found Simboli and Mascetti were carried through the streets of the North End on the shoulders of their friends while the crowds cheered.

Yet in the middle of the revels friends of Simboli noticed that he was not as jubilant as the occasion seemed to require. There was a frowning note to his brazenness as he explained how he had "got it over."

Owes More Money Than There Is in the World

San Francisco, Sept. 29.—George Jones is owed more money than there is in the world, outside of Russia. George Thomas Jones of San Jose, Calif., filed a bankruptcy petition today.

Jones said in his petition the amount due his principal creditor is $184,540,323.912.6516 and is a judgment against him by the Superior Court of Santa Clara County.

In 1917 he borrowed $100 from Henry B. Stuart at 10 per cent. interest compounded monthly. Recently Stuart brought an action to recover.

The court started figuring up but quit when the lead pencil supply of his law firm was threatened with exhaustion. Mathematical experts finally figured it up. The court held against Jones.

THREATEN LIFE OF SLAYER

Guards Draw Guns and Protect Williams, Who Killed Dorchester Druggist

En route from police headquarters to the Dorchester court, a police van which carried John W. Williams, killer of Druggist Frank E. Small of Dorchester, was mobbed today by a crowd of several hundred people when the van became stalled by a traffic jam on School street.

Only the prompt arrival and efficient action of traffic police prevented the van from being rushed and Williams torn from the hands of the police who guarded the van.

The mob threatened to break the van-crazed murderer.

Williams had been questioned at headquarters by Superintendent of Police Michael Crowley, and had given his version of the story. He was placed in the police van to be taken to Dorchester for arraignment.

When the van was stalled, some turn free.

BROOKLYN PAUPERS ACT AS RUN-AROUND CHARITABLES

CITIZENS DEMAND AUTHORITIES INVESTIGATE SOURCE AND SALE OF FLOOD OF LIQUOR

Paupers at the Brooklyn City Home men supported largely by public funds, are acting as rum-runners for two or more wholesale hooch producers in that city. Not only that, but the City Home itself is the dumping ground for a plentiful supply of liquor, sold by dispensers to the inmates.

These are some of the facts brought out in an investigation and by statements given to the Boston American by residents of Brooklyn. For several months feeling in Brooklyn has been running against the City Home. Rumors that would not down across day after day regarding the institution. The rumors developed into concrete facts and indignant taxpayers urged the police to act.

Now, it is learned, inmates of the City Home have been brought into the employ of Brooklyn distillers without any check on their actions by law. Under authority of the State, the City Home has been given the right to employ inmates of the City Home as runners.

Although the rates of the City Home demand, inmates be in their quarters by 6 o'clock and must be seen by the warden at 10 o'clock, it is well known that the morning, some of them are able to navigate alone while others are helped on both sides.

One resident of Brooklyn stated when discussing the matter, "Only a short time ago a relative of mine tried to buy moonshine at one of the two places that are operating here. The proprietor refused to sell him anything. A few minutes later a pauper came along and was able to get the liquor without any trouble."

These facts of several cases where the makers of this stuff have been disposing of it through inmates of the City Home, and you can't tell me that the authorities at the home are ignorant of what is happening. They certainly know that the men are out after hours and they should be kept out and find out where they men are."

PLENTY OF BOOZE.

The Boston American reported visited the City Home and interviewed several of the inmates.

"Sure we can get all the moonshine we want," declared the men. "All we have to do is moon down one of the gang and he can buy all he wants. There are two places around here where the stuff is made. One is down near the tower toward Huntington avenue and the other is over three indicating Beaver street."

"I suppose you fellows can make a little on the side by bootlegging," "Not you," questioned the reporter. "But your life, son," was the impatient reply.

Both of the liquor runners in question have been the subject of police scrutiny in the past, but clever work on the part of the moonshiners prevents any damaging record against them.

"But no wonder," said another nearby resident. "The police raid the place with a huge band in front of them."

It is an axiom that at least one of the moonshiners is always in the neighborhood. Frequent trips to a Brooklyn excursionist to his home, with a big load of empty barrels, and later departure with moonshine, is taken by neighbors to mean a widespread distribution of the "bootlegging" trips to North Providence are included in the literary is claimed.

It is interesting to note that the law-taxpayer. "We have to pay money to support the City Home and later some of the men in it, thus nothing of being a party to selling our neighbors and sons and daughters this rotten liquor. It is high time that the authorities do something to stop the practice."

The charges of citizens include not only inmates of the City Home but at least one officer in the official, according to two different residents, makes from the City Home every day to the "barroom" of one of the moonshiners. He travels in a City Home wagon. It is said that he can be with the moonshiner in the morning, at a typical place where he have seen him. Certainly, they point out, the City Home can have no legitimate connection.

Has Jazz Insomnia

LILLIAN GAVISH

MUSIC WITH NO CHARMS FOR NEIGHBORS

Long skirts are not long giving Miss Jane a little less than a day. Residents in the Astor street section of the Back Bay have hopped into the ring and are trying to knock the old boy out altogether.

The Astor street anti-jazzers will succeed, too, if a court action aimed at the new ballroom on Astor street, adjoining the State Theatre, is successful.

The ballroom attracts large numbers of young folk who dance until the sun comes up. The anti-jazzers are now trying to get the ballroom closed down.

Although the rates of the City Home demand, inmates be in their quarters by 6 o'clock and must be seen by the warden at 10 o'clock, it is well known that the morning, some of them are able to navigate alone while others are helped on both sides.

STONES, STAINED TO BOB 2 BILLYS HERE

New York, Sept. 30.—Attachment of funds carried in four New York banks to the credit of Hugo Stinnes, German industrial magnate, in connection with a $2,055,185 breach of contract suit filed by James A. Stinnes, revealed today that Stinnes, through various financial schemes, had made attempts to float loans for billions of dollars in this country.

One of these, Stinnes asserted, was that he was to obtain a $10,000,000 loan upon Stinnes' promissory note, secured by his real estate, and Stinnes planned to use the money for purchase in the United States of millions of shares of the current exchange rate, 5.0125.

With the same money intended to purchase mortgages held by the "Hansas," a German corporation, which functioned as a vehicle for the sale of American title and bond and mortgage companies.

After investigations were secured at their face or pre-war value in marks, Stinnes was to purchase the United States of America as collateral upon which to raise at least $2,000,000,000 in the various currencies in the world.

Stinnes, described as a financial genius, claimed that on May 1, 1918, he entered into an agreement with Stinnes for the purchase of a Swedish corporation controlled by Stinnes of certain agencies for developing the resources of the United States. These agencies were owned by Stinnes, and he was to become managing director of the principal office at Stockholm.

Stinnes' financial statement continued, was to furnish collateral on which Stinnes might undertake to secure a loan of $12,500,000 in the United States, needed by Stinnes at the time of his purchase of the new materials.

Instead of furnishing this collateral, the statement continues, Stinnes concealed "fictitious financial statements" and "fictitious financial statements" from Stinnes, and Stinnes thought would never be seriously entertained by American bankers. The $2,000,000,000 loan Stinnes was to secure.

BOSTON WOMAN LAWYER ASKS FOR DIVORCE

Did Miss Gertrude Wasserman, member of the Boston bar and possessor of a large income as a title examiner, "pick up" Joseph Rosenberg, wealthy member of the interior decorating house of Rosenberg Brothers, No. 571 Fifth Avenue, New York, while vacationing at the Hamilton Hotel, Bermuda, last February, and court him until he married her? He did so most him in a manner acceptable to Mrs. Grundy and then, overwhelmed by his whirlwind wooing, consent to become his wife?

'COOKY LADY' IS SAVED BY WILL OF SPINSTER

When Rachel T. Stevens, member of an aristocratic old Massachusetts family, made her will and left the net income for the support and maintenance of poor worthy Protestant single women of Boston, she made her bequest to bridge-people of family and adherence to the traditions of gentlemen.

The will stipulated that the beneficiaries should once have seen days of lavender and old lace, that they should be single gentlemen, over fifty-eight, reduced "by an act of Providence" to poverty. This was a downfall had been brought about by indolence and extravagance should receive no benefit therefrom.

SOMERVILLE WOMAN FIRST.

The will was made in 1884. It left the net income of the Stevens estate first to Hannah Jose nine Adams of Somerville, daughter of Frank and Josephine Adams. She was a spinster whose family estate had dwindled, and whose frail health and lack of knowledge of the workaday world left her without means of support.

With her death, the income now has two beneficiaries.

One, the little old lady of the cook-

let. Before the clerkman in the Episcopal Church in the suburbs of Boston where she is living, discovered her secret, that too proud to let any one know of her poverty, she was ill and almost without income, she supported herself by her cookies.

SECRET KEPT SAFE.

Hopeful, cheerful and delightful in her charm and conversation as in the old days, she made her wares, they were sold through a woman's club and her secret was safe.

Yet, even in this water near cookies, there is slight suspense when one is almost an invalid. The same attack a brother had managed to leave her, in the American Agricultural Society.

She then had left, $55 a year from United States Bond fund.

No one dared offer her money. Rachel T. Stevens had an under-standing heart. Unmarried herself, knowing the helplessness of frail women, whose knowledge of life is limited and who have no father, brother or husband to whom they might turn, she remembered them in her bequest.

The wrinkled little lady will be divided over her cookies, for the income must be divided among several, but happier that someone understood, and that her doctor and clergyman found this means, however small, of helping her.

ARLINGTON GIRL TO BE BRIDE TONIGHT

Miss Gladys Crabtree, sister of the bride, will be the maid of honor, and Miss Alice Crabtree, a sister of the bride, and Miss Betty McCauley, of Dorchester, bridesmaids. The best man will be Charles E. Nichols of Dedham.

The Reduction to 9 1/2 Cents

The Edison Company, on September 1, reduced its maximum rate from 10 cents to 9 1/2 cents per thousand.

On March 1, reductions were made by the removal of the coal charge and the 5 per cent. additional charge.

These reductions were made in spite of the fact that:

1. Coal is still costing far more than the pre-war price which was a factor in making the pre-war rate.

2. No reduction has been made in the wages of over 2000 employees. These wages have been increased an average of over 58 per cent. since 1917.

Over 130,000 customers paying the Company's highest rate profited through the reductions made on March 1 and September 1.

Users of Edison Service on other rates have at all times had the advantage of unusual service at a cost commercially profitable to them.

Rare Bargains at Army and Navy Club Salvage Sale, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

ACCORDING to Mrs. Barrett Wendell—and she ought to know—everyone who attends the salvage sale in aid of the Army and Navy Club will be able to pick up the rarest of bargains. Said bargains include not only choice objects d'art, but all manner of feminine togethery as well—such as evening gowns, wraps, suits, shoes and even negligees.

Members of the "first family" contingent have been more than generous in their contributions for the affair, and many a bit of imported bric-a-brac and china ware which will be for sale has graced the reception hall or dining room of some brick mansion along Beacon street or Commonwealth avenue.

The sale will be held next Wednesday at the Army and Navy Club, No. 10 Park square, opening at 10 a. m. and closing at 5 p. m. Mrs. Wendell is chairman of the committee in charge, and among the group of prominent matrons assisting her is Mrs. Frederick S. Whitwell, who has done no end of good work for the benefit of the club.

I am asked to announce that there will be no premature sales, so that those attending the opening will be able to pick from the entire number of contributions.

WEDDING "fans" are confronted today with the same old perplexity of too many wedding dresses at once and only one you can go to—owing to the fact that one can't be in more than one place at one time.

At noon today, Miss Gertrude Bradlee and Miss Louise Barnes had chosen to promise to "love, honor and obey" their future life partners—Dr. Thomas Lannan and William Loring, respectively.

So that while a line of cars will be winding around the Unitarian Church at Chestnut Hill for the Lannan-Bradlee nuptials there will be as long a line about Emmanuel Church for the marriage of Miss Barnes to Mr. Loring.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Bradlee of Chestnut Hill has selected as matrons of honor Mrs. Gilbert King (Frances Hood), the bridesmaids including the Misses Katherine Lannan, Louise Fernandes, Andrea Adie, Martha Sabine, as well as the Misses Isabel and Elizabeth Mauran of St. Louis.

Miss Barnes's chief attendant is Miss Katherine Chadwick, her other attendants being the Misses Mary Loring, Mary Chadwick, Gertrude Wiggin, Mary Petros, Frances Stobbin, Elizabeth Morris and Mary Rogers. Young Loring, a Harvard '19 man, is the son of the Lindsey Loring of Westwood. His bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Noyes Bacon of Brookline.

OUT Berkeley way, the main excitement these days is the opening of Mrs. Frederick S. Coolidge's fifth annual music festival. The briefest recollections of the musical and social sides have received invitations for the affair, which is held in Mrs. Coolidge's temple of music on the slope of South Mountain. Just at this time of the year, with many of the trees already turned to gold and yellow and red, the setting is extremely beautiful.

At the opening of the festival on Thursday, the wedding string quartet of Stuttgart, Germany, made its first public appearance in this country. Professor Carl Wendling, first violin, was at one time concertmaster of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Among the Bostonians who joined the large audience were Mrs. Richard C. Drey and her sister, Miss Mary Aspinwall Tappan; Miss Alison L. Houghton, sister of Percy Houghton, of football fame; Mr. and Mrs. William T. Councilman of Bay State road and Mrs. William Moore, the latter a house guest of Mrs. Coolidge.

DR. AND MRS. J. HENRY LANSKSHIRE of New York, who spent the summer as usual at their North Shore place in Manchester, are sailing for abroad October 7 on board the Majestic. Sailing with them are their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Umberto Coletti, who spent the summer with them at Manchester, and who are sailing for their home in Florence, Italy.

MRS. HENRY BERNARD MONTAGU (Rosamond Fay) is staying on for a number of weeks at Nahant, with her mother, Mrs. Dudley Fay. The marriage in London last June of the former Boston girl to Captain Montagu was one of the important nuptial events of the British capital. Captain Montagu, a son of the late Lord Robert Montagu, after spending some time in Nahant with his bride and mother-in-law, has returned to the other side for his naval duties. Mrs. Montagu is to follow him shortly.

Miss Caroline Lowenstein of No. 103 Geneva avenue, Dorchester, a member of the Girl Scouts, proved to be the right person in the right place when she found the fractured wrist of Miss Sadie Herman of No. 21 Brimfield street, Roxbury, who received severe injuries after a fall on the sidewalk.

Miss Herman, a cripple, was walking along Devon street, Roxbury, when her crutch slipped, throwing her to the ground, doubling an arm and leg under her. She was suffering from intense pain and nobody in the crowd attempted to assist her until Miss Lowenstein volunteered her services.

Poulin Not the Father of "Love Baby"

THE PATERNITY SUIT LOST

Judge Believes, However, That Poulin and Mrs. Tiernan Had Intimate Relations

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 30 (By International News Service)—Harry Poulin, the Cambridgeport haberdasher, today was adjudged not to be the father of Mrs. Augusta Tiernan's baby, born last November, in the decision handed down by Judge Chester Ducomb in court.

The decision came like a thunderbolt to the Tiernans and their friends, for it was drastic.

It comprised six typewritten pages of legal paper, and Judge Ducomb made it distinct that he found Poulin "not guilty" of the accusation made against him by the wife of Professor John P. Tiernan of Notre Dame University in her confessed story of a "secret love romance" with the haberdasher.

Judge Ducomb stated, however, that he believed that there had been intimate relations between Mrs. Tiernan and Poulin.

IMPUTES REASONABLE DOUBT.

The fact, however, that Professor Tiernan had lived with his wife throughout the entire affair created reasonable doubt that made it only compulsory to find for the defendant the decision stated.

It was pointed out that, although the Tiernan testified she had not had an affair with Poulin, the couple had lived together and remained together. This fact created the reasonable doubt as to whether Poulin was the father of the child in the decision.

COURT'S MORALS SHOCKED.

This case has been given a great deal of notoriety and the testimony has been of the most sensational character and has shocked the minds of the court as well as the entire country, and it is regretted that in the course of the trial it was necessary to discuss the details of a case of such a degrading nature.

It might be well to say at this time that the court is of the opinion that the only real innocent party to the case is the mysterious baby, who has been foremost in the mind of the court during the entire trial, but the cleaner and the crisper of the public child has been almost forgotten.

Mrs. Tiernan, with her head bent forward to catch every word of Judge Ducomb, was slow at first to grasp the import of his decision. Then suddenly she gave a low cry and fell forward in a faint, her arms outstretched from the courtroom and returned to her home.

Mrs. Holmes forgot to say anything about her age at the wedding, but the judge and the jury of the public child has been almost forgotten.

ROCKLE KILLED MY LOVE CULT PATRON

"Rev." Charles Newman Says "Fatty" and Miss Rappe Were "Patients"

Los Angeles, Sept. 30.—Rocco "Fatty" Arbutkule and Virginia Rappe, dead film beauty, have been drawn into the sordid picture of "The Rev." Charles Newman's love cult school.

"They were both patients of mine," Newman said.

This was said by Newman, whose real name is Harry T. Cohen, and who, it is alleged maintained as of No. 705 West Sixth street, to which hundreds of young girls and women were charged, were charged by the promise that Newman, the "man who knows all," would settle their troubles. Cohen said in his statement to the authorities:

"Arbutkule received many red flags from me. Rocco always paid well and liked my advice. I told him to go to an attorney, and if he had followed my advice as I gave it, I am positive he would have been clear in that San Francisco manhandle case long before he was."

"Virginia Rappe also came to me many times. I must say this, however, in fairness to Arbutkule and Miss Rappe. Their visits here were in no way connected. I never learned that they knew each other and neither asked questions about the other during the sessions."

Following a "party" Arbutkule gave in the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco, more than a year ago, during which Miss Rappe received injuries from which she later died, the comedian was tried for manslaughter on three occasions. Two disagreements brought about a third trial in which the jury acquitted "Fatty" after deliberating eleven minutes.

LOVELL KILLED MY BABY, SAYS SLAYER

Lovell Woman Declares She Led Life of Abuse Following Marriage

By HAROLD R. HALL

Lovell, Sept. 3.—"He killed my baby, and so I shot him. He will never kill another baby of mine."

Without moving words and without shedding a tear of either grief or remorse, Mrs. G. Brady thus explained why she shot and killed her husband, Fred W. Brady, Lowell city official, as he stood in the main corridor of the Lowell city hall.

"God will watch over me and will care for me through all of this," said the little woman, when she was told that she would be taken to the jail at East Cambridge to await trial for murder.

NEVER KNOW HAPPINESS.

She has never known happiness since I married Fred. He was always beaten and abused me and failed to provide even enough food for myself and the children. He has ruined my life. He killed my unborn baby and kept me away from my other children, but he will do it no more."

Then the gates of the county jail closed on this black-eyed little woman who came over to America from Ireland fourteen years ago, hoping to find happiness and peace.

To a neighbor, Mrs. Brady hinted that she was about to do something terrible, but before she could do more than to the City Hall, where she shot her husband.

THROWN AGAINST STOVE.

"My husband beat me terribly not long ago," she told the woman friend. "He beat and choked me and then threw me against the stove. I lay in a crumpled heap on the floor of the kitchen for a long time. Then I was taken away and sent to the hospital. There the loved one I expected was born dead. He will never do that again." Directly after making the statement she left her home for the hospital on Thursday night she found it in darkness. There was not a single bit of food in the house. Her children were gone and she was alone, penniless and hungry.

Tuesday morning she decided she must have some money and went to City Hall to see her husband, who was to draw her money.

"She remembered what happened to her in that same City Hall two years ago," said her attorney, E. J. Tierney. "She went there to get some money and her husband beat her and kicked her and abused her so badly in public that she was arrested and brought before the court on an assault charge."

CHILDREN CRY FOR MOTHER.

It was a few days after that beating that Mrs. Brady and her wife, who is in East Cambridge jail, the two little children, Fred and Mary, six, are crying for their mother.

Mary is with friends of the family. Mrs. Brady met Brady ten days ago when he was freed from Holy Cross College. He was a dapper lad and she was a typical Irish beauty. They fell in love and were married. Then the unhappiness and dissension began.

MARY AND FRED BRADY

ACTRESS SHOT STARBIRD MERE BY JILTED ACQUAINTANCE, SUITOR WRITES GIRL

New York, Sept. 30.—Katherine "Kitty" Barry, twenty-two, dancer and actress of the Moulin Rouge show, Murray Levinson, forty, of Brooklyn, ended his fruitless suit for the girl twice in the chest and then committing suicide.

The double shooting took place in the dining room of Miss Barry's apartment in Eighth avenue, after Levinson had telephoned for an appointment to call and had laid his last plea of love before her.

She sat stunned by the girl, who had repeatedly declared that she was devoted to the stage to wed, Levinson grew excited, produced a revolver and fired two shots at her. Screaming, the girl ran to the street. While surrounded by neighbors, the fainting dancer heard two more shots in her apartment above and collapsed, saying:

"I have been shot, but I'm all right. Go to his aid—quick."

A former Hospital ambulance found Levinson lifeless and took Miss Barry to the hospital, where it was said her wounds, while serious, were not mortal.

DRIVED AS ANY GIRL

But Voice Betrayed Harry Harrington to New York Policeman

New York, Sept. 30.—Because he had shapely legs and could dance, as he says, as "good as any stage girl," Harry Harrington, fourteen, of No. 41 Standish street, Dorchester, Mass., "swiped" his fifteen-year-old sister's clothing and, posing as a girl, rode on several city, went to a dance and vamped several ardent young gentlemen, only to lose his standing today as a "girl" by a betraying, deep note in his voice.

Patrolman Joseph Casarella of the Madison avenue station, Brooklyn, today noticed four youths taking rather loudly and apparently as if they were on the corner of Adelphi and Fulton streets.

Casarella was amazed when the girl turned to him and said something in a hoarse-voiced voice. He grabbed at her hair.

"You're a boy," he asserted. Harrington, who wears his hair long enough to pose as a boy-haired rascal, admitted it. The children's society had him arrested before Magistrate Wilkins in the children's court, charged with improper guardianship and are now communicating with his parents.

Harrington, the police say, "kidded" several truck drivers into bringing him along to this city. When he reached here he went to a dance in Flatbush and was most sought after for his "sensual" capabilities. Later that night, Harrington, still known only as a girl, obtained a furnished room, even though he had no money. The police say that Harrington expressed a serious desire to go on the stage as a girl dancer.

RED SOX CELLS STARS SHOOT UP IN Y. C. RINGS

By NICK FLATLEY.

Hope deferred is likely to make the Yanks so heartless that the Sox will lick them one day. They've been counting on the A. L. crown all season, but they haven't got it yet. Licking the Red Sox in three games looked like the softest bit in the world a few days back.

Now it's something different, and Miller Huggins and his crew are decidedly worried. They should win eventually, but two defeats in a row by the tallenters have helped to put them in the proper frame of mind for a tough post-season collision.

Here in Boston, the illustrious attack of the Yankees has manufactured just one run in two ball games. Of Jack Quinn shut 'em out yesterday, and thereby was elected to honorable membership in the strange club, started by Rip Collins the day previous.

Tip held the leaders to four hits, and they could only look Jack over five. The Glats may not have the pitch staff in the world, but you can tell your friends they have enough stuff to seriously interfere with a team that can only register nine safeties in two pastimes with a pennant depending on the same.

Red Sox Have Managed To Make Finish Nervous.

It's a million to one shot, of course, that the Yanks will win out the Red Sox have managed to make the finish extremely nervous for them. Last year's game has given chance to collect the goal, to wit:

A victory today over the Red Sox.
A defeat for the Browns by Chicago.
The same thing in St. Louis.
A victory tomorrow over the Senators.

A post-mortem tomorrow in Washington.
A Brown defeat on Sunday.
A Brown postponement Sunday.

Any one of the foregoing things, a quite likely to happen. The best the Browns can do if the Yanks play like all their glittering opposition is to tie the race up, but the flag is in the bag, the fans are going to be all stirred up.

For the first time in Boston this year, the sporting world hangs with queries from the front and back. The sport's people begin to wonder if the Yanks will come down to a play-off.

Another Example of The Red Sox Luck Today

Just think, the series here is just one example of the Red Sox's luck. The tallenters were in the play to a banner crowd this morning, probably the first time in history that a last place club was chosen to compete in a pennant race.

Huggins and the Yanks try to make things, with the result that the team could not have won. Collins and Quinn in the 'couple of days.

But then, they worry about what Pennock is likely to have at the afternoon, and they wonder if neither Carl Mays nor Walter Johnson can beat him.

Whatever happens in the post couple of days, it's a clinch that the American League's cup of confidence has been badly shaken when the biggest demand for it was present.

BROCKTON FAIR BIGGER AND BETTER'N EVER

Brockton will be the second city in New England for five days next week. Four hundred thousand visitors are expected at the Brockton Fair. It will be the most complete fair that Brockton has ever staged and the management looks for all records for attendance to be broken.

There are more than two hundred events on the official program. Seven brass bands and several orchestras will play almost continuously, while an elaborate vaudeville show will be presented on three stages. Balloon ascensions, parade, circus jumping, fireworks, a Wild West show, a half dozen athletic contests, a dresser's master and a hundred or more side shows in the full of midway will keep the visitors busy and happy.

The thoroughbred horse show is the headliner. This year the Fair is offering $20,000 in prizes and 1500 of the finest blood stock horses in the country and Canada will surround the ring.

The big event of the speed meeting will take place on Tuesday, the evening day, when the fastest car will be raced. Single G. broke the champion car, will start a record last year.

There is an automobile show, a dog show, a food show, wine show, sheep show, poultry and pet stock show, cattle, horses, vegetable and fruit exhibits, garden exhibits, farm machinery exhibits and industrial exhibits are featured.

WEYMOUTH PLAYS OLD RIVAL ABINGDON

Weymouth High School and its ancient rival, Abingdon High School, clashed today at Clapp Memorial field in the first game played by the Weymouth High team. Abingdon has already played, having defeated Weymouth last Saturday. For the last two years Weymouth has played Abingdon to a tie.

The strength of Weymouth is greatly augmented by the return of five former men to school this fall, and by the superior weight of the rest of the team. The five letter men are Captain E. Lyons, who plays pivot; H. Kelly, right halfback; A. Morris, fullback; B. Baines, right tackle, and J. Kenna, left halfback.

JOHNSON GIVES WILLS ONE REAL WORK OUT

New York, Sept. 30.—The Brown panther of New Orleans, out seeking pugilistic prey, found he had leaped aboard a human alligator. It took the Panther, Harry Wills, 12 rounds to claw through the tough hide of Jim Johnson, a bullet-headed, leather-jawed colored man.

The seven or eight thousand persons who went to Madison Square Garden with the expectation of seeing another black sheep about through the Wills shambles, after the manner of the various Johnsons, were considerably astonished as usual after round roiled by and Clem was still riding the deck a little shaky on his pins, and a little dizzy in his round dome, but still able to answer roll call.

Time refused, almost stopped, the bout to save Clem from utter and complete annihilation.

Clem took a thundering knock before the fight ended and took it like a good, game fighter. He did not seem to be able to fight back to any extent.

While he hit with everything but the water bucket, yet Clem kept landing and landing in against seven looking rights and lefts, and what was, until he could get under the lee shore of the storm, which was the shade of Harry's lean brown flank.

There Clem would stick there until the referee showed him away.

After a bout was put on after the man bout to make up for a disappointment when Whittier Allen was stopped in a round by Floyd Johnson in the semifinal, was sent to his corner in the first round of the referee it simply wouldn't fight.

Charley McKenna and Leo Carey went six fast rounds, and at the end of the sixth round, which was a good hustling fight all the way.

MYSTERIOUS!

No one of the tobaccos used in Beech-nut even suggests that teasing relish.

But all together they make it.
